Outgoing Statement - Cynthia Starr

Now that it's over, I'm glad I was FREP - it gave me a chance to meet all the freshmen and to become more acquainted with Execcon and the workings of the dorm. I'm glad the Freshman Breakfast was a success and hope you're not too sick of me begging you to help clean up ^{to all the freshmen} after parties. Thanks for being so cooperative and helpful. ~~Thanks especially to those who helped with~~ I hope you are all properly assimilated into the "Baker lifestyle" and aren't "clueless freshmen" anymore.

-Cyn

We were under budget both semesters.
It was fun being on execcon & kind of fun being treasurer. I may go down in history as being the first Baker Treasurer to bounce a check. Oh, well. Thanks everyone, & bad luck to Rick and the rest of execcon. Bye!

Outgoing Statement

~~When~~ In the beginning of my term, people called me a "clueless freshman"

because I didn't have a story on the minutes and because I spent 5 hours

messing with Athena and 3 hours trying to use the those copies. By the end, people were sick of the silly prose ~~and~~ in the beginning of the minutes, I had Athena

under my thumb, and the people at Gnomon

copy knew me by name. ~~However~~ In between,

~~it was an interesting year - I cleaned out~~
~~the secretary's closet~~

~~the secretary's closet~~

Well, it's been an interesting year and a fun year and ~~is~~ is an honor. I'd like to do more with the historical contents of the secretary's closet, but beyond that, I'll enjoy sitting with the rest of the house during house meetings.

GOOD LUCK & THANKS FOR LETTING

ME SERVE YOU. - ~~Clueless~~ ^{freshman}

VPR0 - Allison Hochstein

I had a great time being VPR0. I think Baker Advising became all the closer knit. Blue Hills was a great time. Everyone should go next year! The Rush events turned out well + attracted what I think is a really good freshman class. Thanks to all the R/O workers - they made my job a hell of a lot easier. Special thanks to Jen, Tanya, Jeff, Debbie, Kate, Max, Dan, Dave, Phil + all those who weren't too embarrassed to run around in a gnomie costume over women's weekend. I hope the freshman class gets involved in Baker, it's alot of fun + worth every second!

Dave Berners
VPFS

First, I'd like to thank everyone who helped me this year, especially Vaux. I think it's been a good year politically - the Dean's office almost likes Baker now.

Good luck, Alex. It sounds like you might get the next UCIR to last longer than a year. Buy at least one

roll of duct tape/day, and have fun

keeping those beers off the stereo.

Well, my outgoing statement gets to be a little bit longer than everybody else's. But you only have to listen to me a little while longer. Then it's story time. I really don't know how to sum up the past year. Some things have been rewarding, others really frustrating. There weren't really too many problems, except we got in trouble for having happy hours . . . and beer coops . . . and some minor difficulties with room assignments . . . and what's a rush violation or two? . . . and a surprise visitor to a cocktail party . . . and the City of Cambridge is out to get us for having a pinball game or two . . . okay, so I retract that statement. Some fun was also had, in case you'd forgotten. There was a pretty good beach party, a lot of fun during R/O, a scavenger hunt, a holiday party, a ski trip, a hayride, a nice picturebook.

I don't think I accomplished all the things I set out to do. I really wanted a strong client team. I wanted some changes to the constitution. I wanted to increase enthusiasm and participation in more house activities, especially among freshmen. I wanted more people at house meetings. Some of these things have gotten better, some worse. On the other hand, I really think we achieved better publicity of and better attendance at execon meetings. I think the level of awareness about alcohol and security is a whole lot higher, and I think the freshmen have a good sense of the responsibility that has to go along with parties, something that has taken 3 or 4 years for the rest of us. ^{to learn.} I think I established some good relations with several people in the Dean's office, and we make good impressions on them in more ways than bad. It's just that when we do make a bad impression, the consequences last a lot longer. I cannot stress enough, still, the importance of close security at parties, continued TIPS training, sober party hosts, and the use of friends, tutors, and judcomm to combat our own problems.

And finally, before story time, I have one last thing to say. Too often, in the past year, I let the little things in my job, the small tasks, the infinite number of meetings, the organizing, get in the way of my real job. Things like that took time, yes, but not necessarily much creativity, and anyone can do those things. The single most important job of the president, and what I was elected for, is to lead in demonstrating the "Baker spirit." To exemplify the traits of openness, friendliness to all, not just Bakerites, readiness to join in any activity, social or academic, and of living and working together in a group. The "open-door-come-in-and-have-a-chat-with-me" attitude. The things we so proudly brag about for two weeks during rush and often forget to live. These things often get lost under piles of homework and meetings, and I wish I'd spent more time extending myself to you. I've got many people to thank for their help, but please accept my thanks to all of you for your support. And now it's story time.

The History Lesson

Alvar Aalto came to the U.S. from Finland in 1939 for the completion of one of his works for the NY World's Fair. In 1940 he accepted a visiting professorship from MIT's School of Architecture. The Dean of the School of Architecture and James Killian talked him in to designing a new dormitory for MIT. He began the design in 1946 with the help of 3 other architects from Finland. Construction of the house began in 1947, and was completed in 1948. The doors opened to the first residents in 1949. Thus 1989 marks Baker House's 40th anniversary. Baker House is one of only 3 works of Aalto in the U.S. The others are a library in Mount Angel, Oregon, and a conference room in the New York Institute of International Education.

The house, in its original design, contained rooms only on the river side of the house - in Aalto's words looking "up or down the river, not at the river." The rest of the space was open living space. Aalto "sought to overcome the traditional but offensively abrupt relationship of private room to public corridor by making the corridor itself a semi-public living space." MIT wouldn't approve of the number or rooms, or of a few other original intentions such as a roof garden, a false roof over the real roof, creating a patio, trellises for ivy on the front side, and copper facing on the hanging staircases. The rooms '01 through '06 became part of the original construction. There were originally 22 different room shapes among the 43 rooms on each floor. The windows were originally framed in white wood. The mood garden was a real sod garden. The house is constructed of three materials - New England brick on the front and the lower half of the back, pink stucco on the hanging stairs and upper facing of the back, and limestone for the dining hall and front and back patios. Before Amherst Alley was moved, the over the entrance was damaged by trucks at least three times.

Rooms '07, '08, and 609 on the third through sixth floors were added in the late 50's, and the '11's and '46's became quads. The loss of this lounge space deprived the hallways of much light, and was felt by many to isolate east from west and discourage much of the hall traffic and community living. Third central was reclaimed in 1982. The house became coed in 1975. We all know about the furniture - originally there were Aalto chairs and lounge furniture, all of which has long since been destroyed. Many additions have been made - the music room, TV room, country kitchen, carpetting of floors and lounges, conversion of first the '06's and then the 03-04's to graduate living spaces, the roof deck, and so on.

The house was designed in such a way to encourage social interaction among the residents. Aalto knew that students needed and valued their social growth as much as their academic growth. The "spirit" of Baker House is what has kept it alive and unique for so many years. This phrase, which I'm sure you have heard before, from the students who lived here in 1973: ((read client team intro)) And this, a report by an architect in the same year: ((pp. 63)) In his concern for the quality of student living, Aalto shared many of views of Everett Moore Baker - and Aalto built the perfect house to promote the ideal of community living.

Who was Everett Moore Baker? He was the Dean for Students from 1946-1950. He was respected and liked unanimously by the student body. He was instrumental in getting the dorm built, because he wanted MIT to become a residential campus to encourage a spirit of unity among undergraduates. Originally, the house was just referred to as "The New Dormitory." In 1950, Ev Baker was killed in a plane crash outside of Cairo, Egypt. At the request of the student body, the new dormitory was named the Everett Moore Baker House, and a foundation in his honor was established. "This house"

Everett Baker was, among other things, a Unitarian minister, a doctor of divinity, a professor, and a poet. His most profound concerns were community, family, social justice and social responsibility. He had a profound effect on everyone he met. ((pp 20.)) ((pp 48.))

On responsibility: ((pp 23.)) ((pp 126)) ((pp 91.))

On community and family: ((pp 94.)) ((pp 105.)) ((pp. 8))

Tom has been nice enough to provide me with an "entertaining story so people will read the minutes"(Alex Gorodisher) Silly me, I thought people read the minutes to find out about Baker. ANYWAYS, the story will be continued in the future minutes since we don't have enough room here for all of it, but that will just make you read the minutes next week, RIGHT??

I Wish I Went To Kappy's

As very conscientious social chairmen Phil and I decided to save Baker some money by taking a road trip to the New Hampshire state liquor store last Saturday. Friday night we asked Ed Flynn to go with us and 'buy'. We were planning on leaving between 10:30 and 11:00 on Saturday. Late Friday night I found out that there was some official crap that had to be done with the house bank account before we could get money to buy the alcohol. Rick (President) and Rick (Treasurer) needed to change the checking account so that their signatures would be valid, instead of Jen's and Maureen's. Jen told us to do that on Saturday morning and then take out the money we needed. Why I couldn't have Jen and Maureen sign the check was never clearly explained to me. In fact sometimes I wonder if they even know when the stupid bank was open (Note the clever foreshadowing). Rick and Rick were supposed to be back from the bank at about 11:45 Saturday morning. I figured I'd just give Ed Phil and Mike wake-up calls 45 minutes later than planned. (Mike Caren decided that this whole thing sounded fun and wanted to go. Now you see why he was "Most Brain-Damaged Freshman"). TO BE CONTINUED....

Motion by Tom/Shawn to approve minutes of last Execon meeting.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

WHERE'S MIKE???

Jeff - I would like to thank everyone for helping to making Women's Weekend at Baker a blast with the Dating Game and the Tea Party. Thanks go out to: Everyone who hosted prefrosh and Theresa Fuentes; Allison, Tim, Kate and Mike for their advice and ideas; Dating game bachelors and host, Andy; Party Posterers and Blackboard Commandos (Yes you read that right - blackboard commandos); doorworkers; bartenders; setup and cleanup crew; DJ's, Luis and Eddie; Rick Marks for the Tea; Christina Liu, Shawn and Alex for all their help; Alice Mendelson; and last but not least Tom and Phil for the band and their Social Expertise.

Kate - I'd like to congratulate Tom, Phil and Jeff for a well organized and smoothly run weekend - it was a lot of fun for prefrosh and Bakerites alike.

Alex - I'd like to thank Seth, Susan Serkes, Guido, Mark Moss, Phil Kuhn, Nadine Regner, Greg and Jina for helping set up Pub.

Shawn - The senior cocktail party is June 4 from 4 to 6. I'm looking for people to help coordinate who AREN'T graduating.

Mike - I'd like to thank Tom and Phil for Pub.

Tom - Thank you to Waitresses, waiters, beer pourers and sandwich makers at pub; everyone who helped set up and clean up, especially Joe Heanue, Renee, Shari, Shawn, Don, Max, and Jeff Kim; our hosts, Tim and Sam; everyone who helped with the band for FTP; Rick Marks for the punch; Jeff Kim for running FTP; Alex for doing a great job with the sound system at pub; everyone who helped throw confetti or saw the beaver in half, you made clean up a real blast. Special thanks to Shirley for spraying whip cream on me.

*++++Could anyone who accidentally removed a pitcher from the dining hall please return it to Tom, Phil or the Desk.

Ed. Note Tom also mumbled something about thanking Jina Kim but since he didn't write it down and everyone else was too loud for Tom to be heard on the tape recorder, this week's Jina Kim announcement was lost.

Change machine

Josh [Pinball Wizard] discussed the possibility of installing a change machine downstairs by the video games and pop machine. A used machine could be obtained from the same company that we rent the video games from for $1200. The machine could increase the availability of quarters to Bakerites. It might also increase the use of the pop machines, video games, washers and dryers. It was also noted that quarters could be obtained from the desk for all but 6 hours of the day. The desk could keep a better stock of quarters as long as desk workers notified Rick (treasurer) when quarters were needed.

FRESH(WO)MEN'S GUIDE TO EXECCON

RICK MARKS, President, Rm. 517. Half of the original Rick and Dave, he's always willing to give his all for Baker. According to our sources at Sigma Chi the Pi Lams were engulfed by his presence.

ALEX GORODISHER, VP Facilities and Services, Rm. 633. The new and improved model is just out this year. You can ask him about his power tools now that he's no longer jail bait.

JEFF KIM, VP Residence and Orientation, Rm. 431. An accomplished seaman with expertise in covert operations, if you're lucky you can get on his special task force.

SHAUN GRANNIS, VP Institute Relations, Rm. 217. From Michigan, he's Baker's reigning Sex God who loves fresh food. Need I say more?

TOM ANTONUCCI, Social Chairman, Rm. 217. As Sex God Runner-up his backrubs are censored material. If you can get him away from Buzz, beer and sports ask him about his grandfather's ziti and his own Italian sausage.

PHIL WELLING, Social Chariman, Rm. 216. The pride of New Vienna, Iowa he goes hog wild over beer and softball. His batting average is almost as impressive as his g.p.a.

BARRY HEMMERDINGER, JudCom Chairman, RM 330. With nicknames like "Hummeth", "Humm-baby" and "Dinger" he's Baker's 'most Unlikely Hero'. Vitamins have drastically improved his performance in softball and . . .

MIKE CAREN, Athletic Chairman, Rm. 417. He's recovering from brain damage nicely. You've still got to wonder what it is that makes this California boy walk so funny.

RICK KIM, Treasurer, Rm. 337. It's a good thing the cutest legs are attached to the cutest tush in Baker. But beware his long standing nickname is "rugburn". ['Oh my gawd!!!'] Is that giving or receiving?

From your favorite Secretary, with a little help from her friends.

EXECCON MEETING Wednesday, Sept. 14, 1989 8pm Lobby

Motion by Jeff/Shawn to approve the previous minutes.

*Respectfully submitted,

For all of you anti-social nerds who haven't read the minutes, looked at your social calendar, or talked to anyone recently the Holiday Party is Dec. 2. (That's the Saturday after Thanksgiving Vacation) So get a clue and a date now, before the Christmas rush.

Don't worry though if you aren't asked until after Thanksgiving. Baker guys are notorious for not asking until the last minute, the record is 4 PM on Saturday, although the set-up party on Friday is a popular time too. There are other options to waiting to be asked, like the hunting committee or asking someone yourself. Just some friendly advice though on what not to do:

1. Do not call on the phone.
2. If you do call on the phone:
 - a. Do not assume they (the invitee) are not in the room and you can leave a message because they will be the one to answer the phone and you will either sound like an idiot or act like one by hanging up.
 - b. Do have an opening line, like "Have you done the 5.11 problem set yet?"
 - c. Do not begin with "Would you mind...", it can only get worse from there.
 - d. Do try to have some sort of conversation after popping the question like "How about those 'Niners?"
3. Do talk to your date between asking and 6PM on Dec. 2
4. Do not go to your date's door with your two roommates.
5. Do not have a Chinese fire drill with five girls in heels in a two door car, they will not all make it back in the car before the light turns green.
6. DO GET A CLUE AND A DATE! The Holiday Party is not the Senior Prom, it is a great time to dress up and go out with your friends.

Motion by Tom/Shawn to approve the minutes of the last meeting. White

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SHAUN - Cocktail Party is FRIDAY from 5 to 7. Invitations are at the desk. Be sure to invite your Professors! It's semi-formal, please dress appropriately.

JEFF - Congratulations to Tom and Phil for a most excellent party!!

Does Jeff really remember the party?

ALEX - Thanks to the Phone Booth Task Force for all their help.

TOM - Thanks to Marni, Danna, Rick and Andy for the South of the Border Happy Hour.

Holiday Party is December 2. Get a clue, Get a date! This means you Mike Caren (and Rick, Phil, Tom, Barry, Shaun, Jeff, Alex and Rick!!!)

We need people to help with Food and Decorations, and someone to be in charge of each.

ALEX - Thanks to the Deejays for their help at the party.

PHIL - Thanks to Beth, Kate, Tiffany, Miriam, Joe, Christine, Seth, Alex, Jash, Rick and Dave, Karl, Shaun, Jane, Carmen, and all the bartenders, door workers, set up and clean up people. Phil also apologized for being less than his usual polite Midwestern self during set-up ("asshole" was the term he used but the minutes are too refined a place for language like that.)

KATE - Any sophomore who is interested in being on the Rooming Assignments Committee should see Jerry Cain (Rm. 418) or Allison Hochstein (Rm. 637) as soon as possible.

TOM - Happy Hours are costing more than expected which is not a problem as long as people are conscientious about donating for what the drink. 'Tis the season, Please give generously.
